Newly formed Western Maine Venture Fund brings investment capital to western and central Maine communities

PORTLAND, MAINE Opus Ventures and the Skowhegan Savings Charitable Foundation today announced the formation of the Western Maine Venture Fund. Qualified under the Finance Authority of Maine's (FAME) Seed Capital Tax Credit Program, the fund will focus on supporting early-stage companies in Maine with growth capital funding opportunities in western and central Maine. Opus Ventures, a Portland based private capital and investment firm, will manage the program.

"We are pleased to work with Opus Ventures and proud to be able to put the bank's foundation capital to work in our communities in this first-of-its-kind venture fund aimed at developing the economic potential of western and central Maine," said John Witherspoon, president and CEO of Skowhegan Savings Bank and President of the Skowhegan Savings Charitable Foundation.

"This is a great opportunity to partner with The Skowhegan Savings Charitable Foundation to bring venture investing to Maine in a targeted way," said Jacques Santucci, managing director of Opus Ventures and president of Opus Consulting Group. "We are proud to join the bank's tradition of ambitious vision for the future of local entrepreneurs paired with genuine interest in seeing Maine's economy prosper."

Opus Ventures is developing a $10 million pool of capital for general investments primarily in Maine and $10 million in targeted funds, like the Western Maine Venture Fund. Investors in both programs may be eligible for benefits from FAME's Maine Seed Capital Tax Credit Program.

Opus Ventures and Skowhegan Savings Bank have a history of shared interest in helping local entrepreneurs to grow and prosper in Maine.
